WHITE LEADING

Chairman Says Cooper To Lose Franklin-Co.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 3. — "The widespread shifting of votes reflected in newspaper polls is convincing testimony that the electorate is well informed concerning the issues in this campaign," Henry G. Brunner, chairman of the Democratic state executive committee, said today.

"The tremendous swing of those who supported Governor M. Y. Cooper two years ago to George White, his Democratic opponent this year, shows the voters resent the imposition of many millions of dollars in new taxes, the multiplication of jobs, the increase in payrolls, the legislative incompetence and the disregard of pre-election promises that have marked the present administration.

"Likewise the drift of those who voted for a Republican senator two years ago to Robert J. Bulkley this year evidences an understanding of the shortcomings of the national administration and the importance of the other questions involved in the senatorial contest. The voters are keenly aware of the disservice rendered by Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch in voting to elevate Judge John J. Parker to the Supreme Court bench over the protests of organized labor and the negroes whose human rights could not have been safeguarded by a man voicing the philosophy Judge Parker represents. And the men and women of Ohio are not forgetting the junior senator's part in inflicting the Grundy-McCulloch tariff upon them.

"So the trends in the state-wide polls being taken with scrupulous regard for accuracy and fairness by The Cincinnati Enquirer and The Columbus Dispatch continue to show wholesale changes in alignment with the Democratic candidates as the beneficiaries. The great independent vote of Ohio and Republicans who refuse to condone misgovernment in state and nation are uniting with Democrats to express their disapproval.

"Typical of the day-to-day figures are those at hand today which show that in The Enquirer poll on the governorship 7,980 votes have been cast with White receiving 4,572 to Cooper's 3,408. Of the total 1,118 indicated they voted for Cooper two years ago now have shifted to White. Only 192 indicated that they voted for the Democratic candidate two years ago and now have shifted to Cooper.

"In the Dispatch poll on the governorship 16,632 votes have been cast. Of these 2,226 who voted for Cooper two years ago now cast their ballots for White. Only 425 who voted for the Democratic candidate two years ago now indicate a preference for Cooper.

"Of the combined vote of the two newspapers, 24,612, some 3,344 who voted for Cooper two years ago now cast ballots for White. And only 617 who supported the Democratic candidate two years ago now shift to Cooper.

"A similar shift is shown in the vote on the senatorship with Bulkley receiving 13,542 of the total of 23,363 votes cast and McCulloch getting 9,821. Of these 3,804 have shifted from a Republican candidate two years ago to Bulkley this year. And only 445 of the total have shifted from a Democratic senatorial candidate two years ago to support McCulloch this year."

Analyzing figures in the Columbus straw vote, William C. Howells, Columbus correspondent of the independent Cleveland Plain Dealer, informs his readers: "The canvass being taken by the Columbus Evening Dispatch so far has covered Franklin County and strong Republican territory. It shows Gov. Myers Y. Cooper probably will lose this county and is running far behind in rock-bound counties that he should carry easily. "If the ratio of Democratic gains and Republican losses holds, White will carry the state by 220,000."

FIRE SWEEPS PENN. CAPITAL

Building Under Construction
Is Razed By Mysterious
Blaze Early Friday.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 3.—Fire, cause of which has not yet been determined, broke out in the new state educational building at the capitol here early today and burned for more than three hours before the flames were brought under control.

The blaze was discovered shortly after 4:10 a. m. this morning. Firemen who responded to the first alarm found the interior of the building a mass of flames and turned in a second alarm to which emergency apparatus responded.

The amount of damage has not been estimated. The building, one of the new structures in the capitol group, was rapidly nearing completion and was to have been occupied about Jan. 1, 1931.

Its interior was filled with building material, which caught fire and burned steadily.

The interior of the building was virtually ruined by the blaze. At 7:10 a. m. the blaze was under control, Fire Chief Tawney reported.

Water was still being poured on the structure, however, the interior of which was still smoldering.

Music Features Meeting Of Lutherans Thursday

Another very interesting and successful meeting adding to the achievements of Trinity Lutheran Brotherhood was the score of Thursday evening's session.

The devotional service was opened by the singing "Work for the Night is coming", reading of the 104th Psalm, prayer, and closed by the entire Brotherhood joining in singing "Jesus be Our Guide."

The usual business routine was gone through, after which E. C. Ebert and committee served an excellent buffet lunch.

The musical part of the program was in charge of H. M. Crites, his first number being a cornet solo by himself, "The Holy City" he responded to a liberal encore with "Humoresque". The piano accompaniment for both numbers was played by Miss Elizabeth Reber, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Reber of Walnut-twp.

Miss Reber next gave a piano solo, following that with a vocal solo, entitled "Smile, Smile, Smile". So pleasingly did she render both of these numbers that she was obliged to respond to an encore by giving another vocal selection. The accompaniment on the piano was played by Mrs. Gerald Marion. Gerald Marion, who has acquired much fame as a radio artist, was next introduced, and rounded out

FATE OF TWO MISSIONARIES NOW UNKNOWN

British Women, Misses Nettleton and Harrison, Reported Slain By Chinese.

WORD UNCERTAIN

Ransom Asked In July, Pair
Missing.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Conflicting reports concerning the fate of two British women missionaries, the Misses Nettleton and Harrison, kidnapped by Chinese bandits at Chungshai, Fukien province, last July, reached London today.

While Peiping dispatches to the evening newspapers reported the women had been shot, the British legation in Peking issued a statement quoting reports from other sources that women had been released.

Partially confirming the Peiping news reports, however, the church missionary society received a cable from its China offices giving the brief message "Nettleton Harrison shot."

The Misses Nettleton and Harrison were field workers for the church missionary society. Their kidnapping several months ago was a Communist depredation in a series of attacks on missionaries. The women were at their height caused widespread indignation, and every possible step was taken to obtain their release.

ASKED $50,000
The bandits who spirited them away to an unknown hiding place in the hills of Fukien province demanded $50,000 ransom each for the release of the women. In support of their demand, they dispatched a ransom letter to the British legation, accompanied by a finger purported to have been cut from one of the kidnapped women's hands.

Strenuously worded notes were dispatched by the British government to the Chinese authorities, demanding all possible steps to be taken to obtain release of the prisoners. A fund was hastily organized, and delegates departed for Fukien with at least part of the sum demanded for ransom.

The emissaries apparently failed in their negotiations, for although no further ransom demands were received, weeks passed with no word of the prisoners' release. British officials immediately cabled to Peiping for full information regarding the incident.

HOOVER FLAYS DEPRESSION IN BANK ADDRESS

Asks Higher Standard of Living In U. S. Despite Economic Condition.

7,000 LISTEN

Communists Stage Demonstration
In Street.

BY GEORGE R. HOLMES.

ENROUTE WITH PRESIDENT HOOVER TO WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—President Hoover returned to the capital today from his initial foray into the field of off-year politics—a trip which saw him chart the position of his party on the current business depression, and enunciate the doctrine that, depression or not, there shall be no lowering of the American standard of living because of it.

Before an audience of some 7,000 bankers, members of the American Banking Association, Mr. Hoover last night declared his faith in the fundamental soundness of the country's economic system, and asserted that: "Any recession in American business is but a temporary halt in the prosperity of a great people."

He appealed to the bankers to be optimistic but to exercise sober judgment in the economic crisis through which the country is passing, and at the same time he admonished the "die hards" among them not to seek advantage in the circumstances that now prevail.

Departing from his set speech in order to reply to some of the administration critics during the bankers convention, Mr. Hoover was emphatic that there should be no wage-cutting in the present depression.

HOOVER'S SPEECH
With obvious reference to speeches that have been made before the bankers' convention to the effect that the present standard of living in America is too high, the President said:

"It appears from the press that some one suggested in your discussion that our American standards of living should be lowered. "To that I emphatically disagree. I do not believe it represents the views of this association. Not only do I not accept such a theory, but, on the contrary, the whole purpose and ideal of this economic system, which is distinctive to our own country, is to increase the standard of living by the adoption and the constantly widening diffusion of invention and discovery amongst the whole of our people."

"Any retreat from our American philosophy of constantly increasing standards of living becomes a retreat into perpetual unemployment and acceptance of some cesspool of poverty for some large part of our people."

The bankers listened to President Hoover's speech with close attention, punctuated only occasionally by applause. The first handclapping was heard when he expressed his "complete confidence in the future of the United States." It was heard when he asserted that "this was not the time nor the place to talk of surrender" to the economic forces which have brought American business down from the high place it occupied a year ago.

There was more applause when he paid tribute to the banker as the economic guide and counsellor of the business man of today.

COMMUNISTS ACT
The President paid his full tribute to the power of the bankers in dealing with the existing economic situation. He appealed to them to use liberal judgment in extension of credit to bring their tremendous influence to bear on the side of "good times psychology" and not to hesitate when it came to extending credit at moderate rates of interest.

The Communists staged a demonstration outside the auditorium in which the President spoke as a counter attraction to the President's speech. There were more inflammatory banners and placards and as the presidential party left the hotel for the auditorium a speaker shouted: "Workers are starving, the bankers and their presidents have 8,000 chickens."

Mrs. Hendricks of Oak Park, Ill., is arriving Sunday and will be the guest of Miss Bertha Bowers and Mrs. George McCrea.

TOOK $40,000

Had Been High Official For 25 Years.

Clyde A. Barr, cashier of the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank at Amanda for 25 years, pleaded guilty to a charge of embezzlement before Judge Brooks E. Shell at Lancaster Thursday and was sentenced to serve from 4 to 30 years in the Ohio penitentiary at hard labor. Barr will be eligible for parole after four years.

Barr, well known in this city, was arraigned in Fairfield-co courts on eight counts for embezzlement of approximately $40,000.

He was sentenced under the following indictment: that the defendant as cashier, being entrusted by the bank with the supervision of the business and interests did without the authority of the directors or Harley Valentine, a customer, unlawfully, fraudulently and wilfully, misapply, embezzle and convert to his own use, a certain promissory note payable to the order of the bank and signed by Harley Valentine. The indictment read the note was to cover an overdraft of Valentine's account at the bank. This caused

PLANE FALLS, BOY IS KILLED

Son of Attica, O., School Superintendent In Critical Condition.

ATTICA, O., Oct. 3.—One boy is dead and another boy was reported to be in a critical condition today as the result of an accident at the Attica fair grounds late yesterday when an airplane crashed in an attempted take-off.

Franklin Croxton, 11, was killed and Lloyd M. Kaufman, Jr., 12, son of the Attica superintendent of schools, was injured seriously. The Kaufman boy is expected to recover.

Howard Burras, 20, of Oleno, O., pilot of the plane, and two passengers had come to the fair earlier in the day and were taking off to return home when the crash occurred. Burras and the two passengers were uninjured.

The two boys were standing near the rail around the race track when Burras lost control of the plane in the take-off as the motor stalled. The ship fell 25 feet striking the Croxton boy and killing him instantly. Kaufman was hit by one wing, throwing him to the ground.

KILLER WRITES AND PROMISES TWO MURDERS

Says Victims Are Already
Prisoners; One In New Jersey, One In N. Y.

PAPER WARNED

Abandon Lovers' Lane, Scene
of Deaths.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The amazing 3-X killer has returned.

He promised two more murders, naming today as the zero hour, and saying his victims are already prisoners, in a long letter to the New York Evening Journal.

There is every indication that the letter was written by the same 3-X who wrote to the Evening Journal of the murder of Noel Sowley in a Queens Lovers Lane before the body of Sowley was discovered, and who boasted that he shot down Joseph Mosyak, College Point grocer, during a love tryst.

"Two men will be killed, one in New York and one in New Jersey," the demon slayer wrote today.

The mad killer claims to have the death warrants of his two prisoners last night. The letter was mailed in Brooklyn last night, and is the first since the two murders of the summer that names the day for execution.

The two men to be killed today are to be murdered for revenge, he writes. Apparently 3-X is no longer interested in Lovers' Lane. Police, he promises, will soon find the bodies of the two victims of his revenge, slain for the killing of Europe of "officers and men" of the secret organization to which 3-X claims he belongs.

There is still another sinister threat in this latest letter, of "serious labor troubles" which will begin in New Jersey and New York soon.

"When it comes," writes 3-X, "watch your powder magazines in New Jersey."

The letter contains a threat to the Evening Journal also.

"Further mention of 'nigger' or 'petter' killer must be discontinued in your own interest," he wrote.

JOINT MEETING REAL SUCCESS

Dr. Miles' Descriptions of Notables Approach Perfection;
80 Present.

Eighty members of the Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary club, the Kiwanis club and several guests from the county farm-bureau heard one of the strangest addresses ever given before a local gathering when Robert Parker Miles, traveler, lecturer and newspaper man, talked at the Boggs Hotel Thursday evening. His subject was "Tallow Dips."

A descriptive power that has never been rivaled here was the finest faculty which Dr. Miles possessed. He mimicked first Theodore Roosevelt at the time he was governor of New York; then depicted W. E. Gladstone, grand old man of the English parliament; Pope Leo XIII was the third person discussed and a picture of the Kaiser of Germany concluded Dr. Miles' Tallow Dips.

In a manner which held the attention of each of his listeners from the time he started to talk until he was finished Dr. Miles was all that he was expected to be. His voice was good, his actions in carrying out the caricatures and the manners of each of the men he discussed were perfect, and his descriptions were perfect.

Possibly the finest description of the evening was that of Pope Leo, who Dr. Miles depicted as one of the greatest men the world ever knew.

The meeting was under the direction of George P. Foreman, president of the Rotary Club. Sam G. Rader, chairman of the Rotary club program committee for October, obtained the speaker.

Mrs. Harry Lawson of Shelbyville, Ind., is arriving Saturday and will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Weldon.

Shell at Lancaster Thursday and was sentenced to serve from 4 to 30 years in the Ohio penitentiary at hard labor. Barr will be eligible for parole after four years.

Barr, well known in this city, was arraigned in Fairfield-co courts on eight counts for embezzlement of approximately $40,000.

He was sentenced under the following indictment: That the defendant as cashier, being entrusted by the bank with the supervision of the business and interests did without the authority of the directors or Harley Valentine, a customer, unlawfully, fraudulently and willfully, misapply, embezzle and convert to his own use, a certain promissory note payable to the order of the bank and signed by Harley Valentine. The indictment read the note was to cover an overdraft of Valentine's account at the bank. This caused

SIXTEEN CASES OF PARALYSIS IN ROSS

Five In One Family Have Been Quarantined For Typhoid Fever.

The fifteenth case of infantile paralysis was quarantined in Ross-co Wednesday when Pauline Caldwell, aged 2, of Wahl-st., Chillicothe, was found to be afflicted.

A sixteenth case has been reported from Richmond Dale and was to be investigated Thursday. Five cases of typhoid in the Cochenour family at South Salem have been reported to the health board.

BYRD TO TALK AT WESLEYAN

DELAWARE, O., Oct. 3.—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd will lecture at Ohio Wesleyan university Monday evening, Dec. 8.

The arctic explorer, who has been engaged by the lecture committee of the senior class, will illustrate his talk with motion pictures of his recent airplane expedition to the South Pole.

Mrs. E. S. Neuding and Harry Van Riper were chosen as delegates to attend the Ohio Welfare Conference at Toledo, Oct. 7, 8, 9 and 10, at a meeting of the board of county visitors.

the bank to sustain a loss of $4,187.50.

Barr was thereupon sentenced from four to thirty years in the Ohio Penitentiary at hard labor, no part of which is to be spent in solitary confinement. According to Prosecuting Attorney R. S. Cunningham of Fairfield-co, the former cashier will not be eligible for parole until the minimum of 4 years expires. The other seven indictments charging embezzlement are still held against him unless nolprossed at some future date.

Sheriff Gail Sesler took Barr to the Ohio Penitentiary Thursday afternoon at one o'clock which marks the beginning of his sentence.

PLANE FALLS, BOY IS KILLED

Son of Attica, O., School Superintendent In Critical Condition.

ATTICA, O., Oct. 3.—One boy is dead and another boy was reported to be in a critical condition today as the result of an accident at the Attica fair grounds late yesterday when an airplane crashed in an attempted take-off.

Franklyn Croxton, 11, was killed and Lloyd M. Kaufman, Jr., 12, son of the Attica superintendent of schools, was injured seriously. The Kaufman boy is expected to recover.

Howard Burras, 20, of Oleno, O., pilot of the plane, and two passengers had come to the fair earlier in the day and were taking off to return home when the crash occurred. Burras and the two passengers were uninjured.

The two boys were standing near the rail around the race track when Burras lost control of the plane in the take-off as the motor stalled. The ship fell 25 feet striking the Croxton boy and killing him instantly. Kaufman was hit by one wing, throwing him to the ground.

ALONZO CUPP DEAD AT 69

Lifelong Resident of County
Taken After Illness of Six Weeks.

Alonzo C. Cupp, 69, farmer and lifelong resident of this county, died at his home in Wayne-twp Thursday at 8 p. m. from complications. He has been ill six weeks. He was born June 2, 1861 in Pickaway-twp and on March 12, 1899 was married to Minnie Julian who preceded him in death Jan. 21, 1922.

He was the son of David and Hettie Graffis Cupp and is survived by two children Harry Cupp of Wayne-twp and Edith W. Anderson, 531 E. Franklin-st., this city, one brother, Marion, of Columbus and a sister, Lida Cupp, of Akron.

He was a member of Union Chapel M. E. Church from where funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. with Rev. Clarence Swearingen officiating.

Burial will be in Forest Cemetery in charge of C. E. Hill, Williamsport.

FEDERAL MAN FACES CHARGE

Lighthouse Keeper Arrested
For Murder of 3-Year-Old Boy Found in Ohio.

NEW MARTINSVILLE, W. Va., Oct. 3.—Ray Henry, 31, keeper of the government lighthouse on Grandview Island, opposite Friendly, W. Va., was arrested here today in connection with the death of Gartlan Balis, 3-year-old boy, whose body was found in a wash of the Ohio river along the island shore several days ago.

Sheriff L. B. Snyder said today that he believed that Henry Keyman, who was in the company of Mrs. Eva Bailey, mother of the dead child, when the battered body was found, is also implicated in the case.

James Dunn, 29, and Clyde McBee, 40, both of Grandview, O., are in jail at Middlebourne, W. Va., with Mrs. Bailey. They are held for investigation. Mrs. Bailey, Dunn, McBee and Keyman are believed to have attended an alleged drinking party on the island preceding the finding of the baby's body.

MOTOR TROUBLE DELAYS FLIGHT

ARMARILLO, Tex., Oct. 3.—Robert Buck, 16-year-old transcontinental flier, today was to attempt a second take off from Albuquerque, N. M.

Motor trouble forced the New Jersey boy's plane down near Glenrio, N. M., yesterday shortly after his takeoff. A mechanic was sent to repair the plane and Buck returned here to spend the night.

Buck is attempting to lower Eddie Schneider's coast-to-coast record of 29 hours and 40 minutes.

KILLER WRITES AND PROMISES TWO MURDERS

Says Victims Are Already
Prisoners; One In New
Jersey, One in N. Y.

PAPER WARNED

Abandons Lovers' Lane, Scene
of Deaths.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The amazing 3-X killer has returned.

He promised two more murders, naming today as the zero hour, and saying his victims are already prisoners, in a long letter to the New York Evening Journal.

There is every indication that the letter was written by the same 3-X who wrote to the Evening Journal of the murder of Noel Sowley in a Queens Lovers Lane before the body of Sowley was discovered, and who boasted that he shot down Joseph Moynski, College Point grocer, during a love tryst.

"Two men will be killed, one in New York and one in New Jersey," the demon slayer wrote today.

The mad killer claims to have the death warrants of his two prisoners last night. The letter was mailed in Brooklyn last night, and is the first since the two murders of the summer that names the day for execution.

The two men to be killed today are to be murdered for revenge, he writes. Apparently 3-X is no longer interested in Lovers' Lane. Police, he promises, will soon find the bodies of the two victims of his revenge, slain for the killing in Europe of "officers and men" in the secret organization to which 3-X claims he belongs.

There is still another sinister threat in this latest letter, of "serious labor troubles" which will begin in New Jersey and New York soon.

"When it comes," writes 3-X, "watch your powder magazines in New Jersey."

The letter contains a threat to the Evening Journal also.

"Further mention of 'necker' or 'petter' killer must be discontinued in your own interest," he wrote.

JOINT MEETING REAL SUCCESS

Dr. Miles' Descriptions of Not-
ables Approach Perfection;
80 Present.

Eighty members of the Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary club, the Kiwanis club and several guests from the county farm bureau heard one of the strangest addresses ever given before a local gathering when Robert Parker Miles, traveler, lecturer and newspaper man, talked at the Boggs Hotel Thursday evening. His subject was "Tallow Dips."

A descriptive power that has never been rivaled here was the finest faculty which Dr. Miles possessed. He mimicked first Theodore Roosevelt at the time he was governor of New York; he then depicted W. E. Gladstone, grand old man of the English parliament; Pope Leo XIII was the third person discussed and a picture of the Kaiser of Germany concluded Dr. Miles' Tallow Dips.

In a manner which held the attention of each of his listeners from the time he started to talk until he was finished Dr. Miles was all that he was expected to be. His voice was good, his actions in carrying out the carriage and the manners of each of the men he discussed were perfect, and his descriptions were perfect.

Possibly the finest description of the evening was that of Pope Leo, who Dr. Miles depicted as one of the greatest men the world ever knew.

The meeting was under the direction of George P. Foreman, president of the Rotary club. Sam G. Rader, chairman of the Rotary club program committee for October, obtained the speaker.

Mrs. Harry Lawson of Shelbyville, Ind., is arriving Saturday and will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Weldon.

Too Much Food

Too much wheat in this country. Too much wheat in Canada. Too much wheat in Russia and Australia and Argentina. Everybody trying to unload it on somebody else. Prices falling lower and lower. Producers suffering. Industry and trade stagnating. Security values undermined. Business generally bad.

Would you suppose that so much grief could result from a food surplus? Especially a surplus of a non-perishable foodstuff?

We might ask similar questions about cotton.

Is there really a surplus, when you get right down to it? Or is there only awkwardness and ignorance in the system by which a supposedly intelligent civilization distributes its agricultural products? Has the human family, as a whole, ever had too much of anything else, except ignorance and carelessness and prejudice?

If the world were properly organized economically, and if there were no interference due to politics and race prejudice, wouldn't farm surpluses flow readily over the world to feed the hungry and clothe the naked, and give farmers a dependable living and make business more secure?

With the economic situation so mixed up, maybe it's natural to mix metaphors. So we see by one of the papers that "the peak of depression was passed last year." Heaven preserve us now from the trough of prosperity!

Longer Life

The expectation of life at birth has been increased 10 years in the past two decades. That is the direct result of health work in behalf of infants and mothers. The United States Public Health Service, which makes the pleasant announcement, adds that there is still a great wastage of life and health in maturity, because of failure to apply existing knowledge.

Adults who know quite well, or who know if they cared to learn, what promotes their own health, disregard even the simple rules concerning food, rest, recreation and exercise.

In matters that public health authorities can take care of, such as pure water supply, garbage and sewage disposal, and pure food and drug laws, adults and children alike are protected. But the government can't make people sensible about their food or work or play, so the carelessness continues and the break-down in middle life increases.

Of course progress has been made. More is known about how to live in good health than former generations knew. In time, more of us will act upon that knowledge and the span of life will be increased at the other end.

An automobile inspector finds only 8 percent of the cars on the road today are in first-class condition. And now will some doctor tell us how many of the drivers are in first-class mechanical condition.

Aerial Pathfinding

AJ. Burwash and his companions, in the Arctic mapped 2,000 miles of coast line, visited the magnetic pole, discovered relics of an expedition lost 80 years ago and made various scientific observations. Most of their work was done by airplane. With the aid of aerial photography they were able to do in two weeks a mapping job which could hardly have been completed in two years by the old dog-sled methods.

This sort of accomplishment is no longer new. It has been done in the Arctic the Antarctic tropical jungles and western wildernesses. It will be done more and more as time goes on.

Setting these remote places however applying the scientific knowledge acquired pursuing the archeological researches suggested will take years. The airplane points the way to new opportunities of research and it may somewhat speed up the old process of extending human knowledge but it hasn't set down away with the need of slow painstaking toil.

"I think Harold Vanderbilt is a darn fine fellow," Sir Thomas is quoted saying after the races. Which does the lesser credit in every respect but one. Who ever heard of a race yachman say "darn."

"JUDY" By Winifred Van Duzer

CHAPTER I.

MORNINGS of early Summer she would trip down the hill to the schoolhouse, something colorful, something blithe about her despite the sober navy serge and spectacles she wore.

She would move along lightly, with the air of dancing, not hurrying for she never was late but busily for she had no patience with inefficiency.

"People needn't be stupid. I'm sure of that." She would say it all in a rush, bringing her full lips into a straight line, shaking her head so light would strike hard gleams from the spectacle lenses.

"You'll not be so sure of anything when you've lived longer, Judith, my dear." Thus spoke Peggy Archer who had lived twenty years longer than her daughter and was neither particularly brisk nor particularly efficient.

"I'm twenty-two," Judy would protest with a toss of her too sleek head, bringing her five feet nothing up to something near state-line.

So they would argue, Judy before the dresser, perhaps pulling her hair into a tight little knot on her neck, striving for the dignity she considered seemly for a school-ma'm finishing out her first year of teaching; Peggy poking a surreptitious finger at the curly gray blonde hair about her own pretty face, glancing from Judy's common-sense brogues to the size three-and-a-half satin slipper swinging beneath her house dress.

Judy would tip the mirror to make sure the navy hem discreetly covered her knees and sometimes would run the powder puff over her nose. But often she forgot this.

She would start off with her swinging, easy stride, pausing to scowl at the old pear tree which seemed trimming, turning at the bend in the road to flip a careless farewell.

A purposeful young woman. Star of Sensible.

Mrs. Rowe, who lived on up the hill, mentioned it to Peggy as she came along the path under the sycamores for a bit of gossip, wagging her long horse's face up and down.

"No nonsense about Judith Archer. Just the arc of my Betty—and look at them! Wasn't I telling Betty's pa only last night she mustn't be in China for all we see of her? Teaching out goodness knows where night after night, waving every cent she gets her hands on for things that's ruined once wearing. You ought to be glad, Miss Archer, that there's no nonsense about your girl."

"Nonsense," Peggy murmured softly. Little hands going out to smooth the flounces of a pink house dress—drawing back quickly. Mrs. Rowe eyed the pink dress, set would away Mrs. Torking from the road when she went by and "spoke no mind." She would say, "Frightful creature, Miss Archer."

Peggy kept holding, smiling, murmuring "Yes, of course."

"Judy doesn't fill your house with her. All you can't move for stepping on them. Flip some things. Varnish and hair and trousers and a skirt, each leg. None of that foolishness about Judith Archer. I can tell you."

"No? Can't be helped. I mean," Peggy amended hastily, "isn't it lovely? Thank you, Mrs. Rowe."

When the horse's face had wagged up the hill, Judy's mother would smile her very young smile, shake her head till the gilt gray curls nodded, loiter along the gravel path toward the big, square weather-beaten house.

"Peg? Hey, Peg—she gone?" This from beyond the hedge on the downhill side in a laughing, flippant voice.

"Come on over. Marie feels like a cup of tea, if you'll make cinnamon toast. Declare, if it doesn't wear me out—what Peter Bontell calls Mrs. Rowe's 'painful respectability'."

A smallish woman in a sleeveless dress came through the hedge. She had bright, daring black eyes in a face seamed with fine wrinkles, and her arrestingly red hair was mouse-gray at the roots. She slipped her arm in Peggy's and they stepped through the French door to the dining room where they cleared a corner of the

Then it was 11 o'clock and Peggy Archer must jump up and sweep the breakfast dishes into the kitchen so Judy might not see them when she came for lunch. Marie, too, had a little nervousness of Judy's fierce young accusing glance. She went back through the hedge.

A clatter on the veranda—the brogues made that noise—a cool voice speaking from the door, "Go, in Ma. Why ain't the mad rush?"

"Marie was over and I got talking. Mornings do fly."

"Oh—Marie. Proof that brain is not a vital organ."

"You'll not be so hard on people when you're really grown up, lamb. And now," inquired Peggy Archer, "are the spa-piepers today?"

"Jumps!" cried Judy. "No kind of devalment they don't know. Sent two to the principal this morning—though a lot of help little Roy Varman is with second grade breakfast table for their tea and cinnamon toast.

No nonsense about Judith Archer: purposeful young woman, staid, serious, sensible.

"Did Judy buy the green crepe, one with the bows down the front, Peg? Saw it was gone from the Specialty Shoppe."

"Wouldn't even look at it. Said bows were for French dolls. She wants the money for a Summer course at Columbia. Judy's wonderful, but—Oh, Marie!"

"I know, Peg. If you'd get her to give up her glasses."

"If I could! Wouldn't you just know she'd be a school teacher? Planning to be a college professor—and me the kind of mother who'd adore a daughter in the movies? Mrs. Rowe's right. I suppose I don't deserve an offspring like Judy."

"Nonsense, she'll be getting married one of these days."

"Sav rot. You know how she feels about men. Keep 'em in their places. The brutes. Either scares them out of their wits or makes them so mad they want to go primitive. I don't think she'll marry."

"Girls always say that. Judy hasn't found the right one yet. Why, she's sweet Peggy."

Peggy sighed. "I was engaged four times before I was Judy's age."

"Earning a living makes a difference. You were a home nest-bird, dearie."

A tiny white line showed at Peggy's lips, a shadow in her eyes. "If Judy's father had lived—well savages. Shake some sense into them, is what I'd like."

"Now, lamb. First of June—what can you expect? I'm useless myself. Judy—timidly—'Mightn't we plan a little vacation trip? Just a tiny one?'"

"Oh, mother! With insurance due and Hamiball's engine must be overhauled if we're going to drive at all. And the leaky place in the roof. Besides I do want to go to Columbia."

Judy took off the spectacles, dashed away a tear. Softly rounded, little face—capricious brows tilted upward at the outer ends—deep gray eyes sweetly luminous. Lashes like a fringe of curling black lace shadowing her cheeks.

"No one ever sees her this way—no one but me," rang like a cry in Peggy's heart. "No one knows how lovely she is."

Aloud she said, "Of course we will be sure the lamb. What would become of us with only one to manage? Have more coffee—brace you against the coldness."

"What a break you are, mother! Some day I'll make it all up to you."

Peggy watched the blue serge down the gravel path. "At afternoon she kept thinking 'No nonsense about her. No nonsense about my girl. Ah, poor lamb! If there were only a little—just the truest speck of nonsense about Judy.'"

Too Much Food

Too much wheat in this country. Too much wheat in Canada. Too much wheat in Russia and Australia and Argentina. Everybody trying to unload it on somebody else. Prices falling lower and lower. Producers suffering. Industry and trade stagnating. Security values undermined. Business generally bad.

Would you suppose that so much grief could result from a food surplus? Especially a surplus of a non-perishable foodstuff?

We might ask similar questions about cotton.

Is there really a surplus, when you get right down to it? Or is there only awkwardness and ignorance in the system by which a supposedly intelligent civilization distributes its agricultural products? Has the human family, as a whole, ever had too much of anything else, except ignorance and carelessness and prejudice?

If the world were properly organized economically, and if there were no interference due to politics and race prejudice, wouldn't farm surpluses flow readily over the world to feed the hungry and clothe the naked, and give farmers a dependable living and make business more secure?

With the economic situation so mixed up, maybe it's natural to mix metaphors. So we see by one of the papers that "the peak of depression was passed last year." Heaven preserve us now from the trough of prosperity!

Longer Life

The expectation of life at birth has been increased 10 years in the past two decades. That is the direct result of health work in behalf of infants and mothers. The United States Public Health Service, which makes the pleasant announcement, adds that there is still a great wastage of life and health in maturity, because of failure to apply existing knowledge.

Adults who know quite well, or who know if they cared to learn, what promotes their own health, disregard even the simple rules concerning food, rest, recreation and exercise.

In matters that public health authorities can take care of, such as pure water supply, garbage and sewage disposal, and pure food and drug laws, adults and children alike are protected. But the government can't make people sensible about their food or work or play, so the carelessness continues and the break-down in middle life increases.

Of course progress has been made. More is known about how to live in good health than former generations knew. In time, more of us will act upon that knowledge and the span of life will be increased at the other end.

An automobile inspector finds only 8 percent of the cars on the road today are in first-class condition. And now will some doctor tell us how many of the drivers are in first-class mechanical condition.

Aerial Pathfinding

MAJ. Burwash and his companions, in the Arctic, mapped 2,000 miles of coast line, visited the magnetic pole, discovered relics of an expedition lost 80 years ago, and made various scientific observations. Most of their work was done by airplane. With the aid of aerial photography they were able to do in two weeks a mapping job which would hardly have been completed in two years by the old dog-sled methods.

This sort of accomplishment is no longer new. It has been done in the Arctic, the Antarctic, tropical jungles and western wildernesses. It will be done more and more as time goes on.

Settling these remote places, however, applying the scientific knowledge acquired, pursuing the archaeological researches suggested, will take years. The airplane points the way to new opportunities of research, and it may somewhat speed up the old process of extending human knowledge, but it hasn't yet done away with the need of slow, painstaking toil.

"I think Harold Vanderbilt is a darn fine fellow." Sir Thomas is quoted saying after the races. Which does the loser credit in every respect but one. Who ever heard of a real yachtsman say "darn."

SEEMINGLY GROWING IN POPULARITY

"JUDY" By Winifred Van Duzer

CHAPTER I.

MORNING of early Summer she would trip down the hill to the schoolhouse, something colorful, something blithe about her despite the sober navy serge and spectacles she wore.

She would move along lightly, with the air of dancing, not hurrying for she never was late but briskly for she had no patience with inefficiency. "People needn't be stupid. I'm sure of that." She would say it all in a rush, bringing her full lips into a straight line, shaking her head so light would strike hard gleams from the spectacle lenses. "You'll not be so sure of anything when you've lived longer, Judith, my dear." Thus spoke Peggy Archer who had lived twenty years longer than her daughter and was neither particularly brisk nor particularly efficient.

"I'm twenty-two," Judy would protest with a toss of her too sleek head, bringing her five feet nothing up to something near stateliness.

So they would argue, Judy before the dresser, perhaps pulling her hair into a tight little knot on her neck, striving for the dignity she considered seemly for a school-ma'm finishing out her first year of teaching; Peggy poking a surreptitious finger at the curly gray-blond fluff about her own pretty face, glancing from Judy's common-sense brogues to the size three-and-a-half satin slipper swinging beneath her house dress.

Judy would tip the mirror to make sure the navy hem discreetly covered her knees and sometimes would run the powder puff over her nose. But often she forgot this.

She would start off with her swinging, easy stride, pausing to scowl at the old pear tree which needed trimming, turning at the bend in the road to flip a careless farewell.

A purposeful young woman. Staid. Serious. Sensible. Mrs. Rowe, who lived on up the hill, mentioned it to Peggy as she came along the path under the syringas for a bit of gossip, wagging her long horse's face up and down.

"No nonsense about Judith Archer. Just the age of my Betsy—and look at them! Wasn't I telling Betsy's pa only last night she might's well be in China for all we see of her. Tearing out goodness knows where night after night, wasting every cent she gets her hands on for things that's ruined once wearing. You ought to be glad, Miz Archer, that there's no nonsense about your girl."

"Mmm," Peggy murmured politely. Little hands going out to smooth the flounces of a pink house dress—drawing back quickly. Mrs. Rowe eyed the pink dress; she would waylay Mrs. Torking from River Road when she went by and "speak her mind." She would say, "Frivolous creature, Miz Archer—"

Peggy kept nodding, smiling, murmuring: "Yes, of course. Yes—"

"Judy doesn't fill your house with boys till you can't move for stepping on them. Flip young things. Varnished hair and trousers, wide as a skirt, each leg. None of that foolishness about Judith Archer, I can tell you!"

"No? Can't be helped. I mean," Peggy amended hastily, "isn't it lovely? Thank you, Mrs. Rowe."

Briefly Told

No star is lost we ever once have seen. We always may be what might have been.

The Old Is Best

I love everything that's old; old friends, old times, old manners, old books, old wine.—Goldsmith.

High Canadian Peaks

One hundred and sixty-one peaks in the Canadian Rocky mountains rise above 10,000 feet.

When the horse's face had wagged up the hill, Judy's mother would smile her very young smile, shake her head till the gilt gray curls nodded, loiter along the gravel path toward the big, square weather-beaten house. "Peg? Hey, Peg—she gone?" This from beyond the hedge on the downhill side in a laughing, flippant voice.

"Come on over, Marie. Feel like a cup of tea, if you'll make cinnamon toast. Declare, if it doesn't wear me out—what Peter Bontell calls Mrs. Rowe's 'painful respectability'."

A small woman in a sleeveless dress came through the hedge. She had bright, darting black eyes in a face scamed with fine wrinkles, and her arrestingly red hair was mouse-gray at the roots.

She slipped her arm in Peggy's and they stepped through the French door to the dining room where they cleared a corner of the

Then it was 11 o'clock and Peggy Archer must jump up and sweep the breakfast dishes into the kitchen so Judy might not see them when she came for lunch. Marie, too, had a little nervousness of Judy's fierce young accusing glance. She went back through the hedge.

A clatter on the veranda—the brogues made that noise—a cool voice speaking from the door. "Le, lil Ma. Why all the mad rush?"

"Marie was over and I got talking. Mornings do fly." "Oh—Marie. Proof that brain is not a vital organ."

"You'll not be so hard on people when you're really grown up, lamb. And how," inquired Peggy Archer, "are the spalpeens today?"

"Imps!" cried Judy. "No kind of devilment they don't know. Sent two to the principal this morning—though a lot of help little Roy Varman is with second grade breakfast table for their tea and cinnamon toast.

No nonsense about Judith Archer; purposeful young woman, staid, serious, sensible.

"Did Judy buy the green crepe, one with the bows down the front, Peg? Saw it was gone from the Specialty Shoppe."

"Wouldn't even look at it. Said bows were for French dolls. She wants the money for a Summer course at Columbia. Judy's wonderful, but—Oh, Marie!"

"I know, Peg. If you'd get her to give up her glasses." "If I could! Wouldn't you just know she'd be a school teacher? Planning to be a college professor—and me the kind of mother who'd adore a daughter in the movies! Mrs. Rowe's right, I suppose! I don't deserve an offspring like Judy."

"Nonsense, she'll be getting married one of these days." "Say not. You know how she feels about men. Keep 'em in their places, the brutes. Either scares them out of their wits or makes them so mad they want to go primitive. I don't think she'll marry."

"Girls always say that. Judy hasn't found the right one yet. Why, she's sweet, Peggy!"

Peggy sighed. "I was engaged four times before I was Judy's age."

"Earning a living makes a difference. You were a home nestling, dearie."

A tiny white line showed at Peggy's lips, a shadow in her eyes. "If Judy's father had lived—well savages. Shake some sense into them, is what I'd like!"

"Now, lamb. First of June—what can you expect? I'm restless myself. Judy—timidly—"

"mightn't we plan a little vacation trip? Just a tiny one?" "Oh, mother! With insurance due and Hamibal's engine must be overhauled if we're going to drive at all. And the leaky place in the roof. Besides I do want to go to Columbia!"

Judy took off the spectacles, dabbed away a tear. Softly rounded little face—capricious brows tilted upward at the outer ends—deep gray eyes sweetly luminous. Lashes like a fringe of curling black lace shadowing her cheeks.

"No one ever sees her this way—no one but me!" rang like a cry in Peggy's heart. "No one knows how lovely she is."

Aloud she said: "Of course we will be sensible, lamb. What would become of us with only me to manage! Have more coffee—brace you against the spalpeens."

"What a brick you are, mother! Some day I'll make it all up to you."

Peggy watched the blue serge down the gravel path. All afternoon she kept thinking. "No nonsense about her. . . no nonsense about my girl. . . Ah, poor lamb! If there were only a little—just the tiniest speck of nonsense about Judy."

PLAN CLIFTONA FASHION SHOW

Arrangements Made To Stage Show Next Week; Girls, Boys and Children In

Arrangements have been consummated between Harry Clifton of the Cliftona Theatre and James F. Finch whereby this Theatre will be the scene next Thursday, Friday and Saturday which is purported to be the city's greatest co-operative fashion exhibit.

The presentation will be in the form of a miniature musical extravaganza and will embody many entertaining features in addition to the modelling numbers.

Professional people thoroughly experienced in this line of endeavor are here to arrange and stage the event and it bids fair to be an artistic success.

Miss Geraldine Gordon of the fashion organization is in the city and will organize a limited number of the most select young women in Circleville to act as models.

Many local merchants will be invited to participate in the city's greatest style event when everything pertaining to milady's fall apparel will be shown from the newest in footwear to the gorgeous fur coats.

At least one professional beauty will be brought here by the fashion people to make a personal appearance during the presentation.

An innovation in the form of fashion presentation will be the appearance of two men models who will show the proper dress in men's wear for all occasions, and as no style show is complete without children, several clever youngsters of the city will show late modes in children's garments.

The stage will be beautifully decorated with furniture and flowers and on the whole the performance promises to be one long to be remembered.

LONE BANDIT TERRORIZES

LAKE FOREST, Ill., Oct. 3.—Taking possession of the home of Mrs. Leverett Thompson, suburban showplace, a lone masked bandit early today terrorized Mrs. Thompson, her daughter and a maid and robbed Abram Poole, New York artist and brother of Mrs. Thompson.

Gaining entrance through a rear window, the gunman entered the maid's room and threatened to kill her when she refused his demand to produce her mistress' jewelry.

He then ran to Poole's bedroom, held his revolver to the artist's head and demanded in broken English that Poole give him his money and Mrs. Thompson's jewels. Poole gave up $35 in cash and his watch.

Poole pleaded with the gunman not to disturb his sister.

"Mrs. Thompson is ill," he told the gunman. "The shock will kill her."

The robber hesitated, broke into Miss Laura Thompson's room, swept some jewelry from the bureau and hurriedly left the house.

OHIO MOTHER KNEW BEST

Wise mothers find the things that keep children contented, happy, well. Most of them have learned they can depend on one thing to restore a youngster's good nature when he's cross, fretful, upset.

The experience of Mrs. W. J. Winter, 1407 East 88th St., Cleveland, is a typical one. She says: "I have used California Fig Syrup with both my boys for a number of years. Whenever they're the least bit constipated or restless I give them a little. It has them comfortable, happy, well in a jiffy. Their splendid condition proves I knew best when I decided to use this wonderful preparation with them."

Physicians endorse the use of pure vegetable California Fig Syrup when bad breath, coated tongue, dullness, feverishness, listlessness, etc., show a child's bowels are in need of help. Weak stomach and bowels are toned by its gentle aid; appetite increased; digestion and assimilation are so assisted that weak, undernourished children quickly improve in weight, strength and energy.

The genuine always bears the word California. So look for that when buying. All drugstores have it.

VESUVIUS AGAIN BECOMES ACTIVE

NAPLES, Oct. 3.—Lava poured slowly today from two new fissures in Vesuvius following the bursting of an eruptive cone inside the crater.

Flaming streams and fiery rocks were hurled high into the air as the volcanic explosion shattered a 270-foot high eruptive crater, offering the countryside a bizarre but familiar spectacle.

The director of Vesuvius observatory assured the inhabitants in the vicinity that there was no immediate danger.

Frequent explosions accompanied the main outburst.

PLAN CLIFTONA FASHION SHOW

Arrangements Made To Stage Show Next Week; Girls, Boys and Children In

Arrangements have been consummated between Harry Clifton of the Cliftona Theatre and James E. Finch whereby this Theatre will be the scene next Thursday, Friday and Saturday which is purporting to be the city's greatest cooperative fashion exhibit.

The presentation will be in the form of a miniature musical extravaganza and will embody many entertaining features in addition to the modelling numbers.

Professional people thoroughly experienced in this line of endeavor are here to arrange and stage the event and it bids fair to be an artistic success.

Miss Geraldine Gordon of the fashion organization is in the city and will invite a limited number of the most select young women in Circleville to act as models.

Many local merchants will be invited to participate in the city's greatest style event when everything pertaining to milady's fall apparel will be shown from the newest in footwear to the gorgeous fur coats.

At least one professional beauty will be brought here by the fashion people to make a personal appearance during the presentation.

An innovation in the form of fashion presentation will be the appearance of two men models who will show the proper dress in men's wear for all occasions, and as no style show is complete without children, several clever youngsters of the city will show late modes in children's garments.

The stage will be beautifully decorated with furniture and flowers and on the whole the performance promises to be one long to be remembered.

LONE BANDIT TERRORIZES

LAKE FOREST, Ill., Oct. 3.—Taking possession of the home of Mrs. Leverett Thompson, suburban showplace, a lone masked bandit early today terrorized Mrs. Thompson, her daughter and a maid and robbed Abram Poole, New York artist and brother of Mrs. Thompson.

Gaining entrance through a rear window, the gunman entered the maid's room and threatened to kill her when she refused his demand to produce her mistress' jewelry.

He then ran to Poole's bedroom, held his revolver to the artist's head and demanded in broken English that Poole give him his money and Mrs. Thompson's jewels. Poole gave up $35 in cash and his watch.

Poole pleaded with the gunman not to disturb his sister.

"Mrs. Thompson is ill," he told the gunman. "The shock will kill her."

The robber hesitated, broke into Miss Laura Thompson's room, swept some jewelry from the bureau and hurriedly left the house.

VESUVIUS AGAIN BECOMES ACTIVE

NAPLES, Oct. 3.—Lava poured slowly today from two new fissures in Vesuvius following the bursting of an eruptive cone inside the crater.

Flaming streams and fiery rocks were hurled high into the air as the volcanic explosion shattered a 270-foot high eruptive crater, offering the countryside a bizarre but familiar spectacle.

The director of Vesuvius observatory assured the inhabitants in the vicinity that there was no immediate danger.

Frequent explosions accompanied the main outburst.

Ohio Mother Knew Best

WISE mothers find the things that keep children contented, happy, well. Most of them have learned they can depend on one thing to restore a youngster's good nature when he's cross, fretful, upset.

The experience of Mrs. W. J. Winter, 1407 East 88th St., Cleveland, is a typical one. She says: "I have used California Fig Syrup with both my boys for a number of years. Whenever they're the least bit constipated or restless I give them a little. It has them comfortable, happy, well in a jiffy. Their splendid condition proves I knew best when I decided to use this wonderful preparation with them."

Physicians endorse the use of pure vegetable California Fig Syrup when bad breath, coated tongue, dullness, feverishness, listlessness, etc., show a child's bowels are in need of help. Weak stomach and bowels are toned by its gentle aid; appetite increased; digestion and assimilation are so assisted that weak, undernourished children quickly improve in weight, strength and energy.

The genuine always bears the word California. So look for that when buying. All drugstores have it.

AT THE MET

"Rain or Shine," which for two seasons broke all records for attendance on Broadway, has been made into a film by Columbia Pictures and it is scheduled to play a return engagement at the Met Theatre on Friday and Saturday. Joe Cook who starred in the stage version, plays his original role on the screen. On the stage he scored one of the greatest personal successes it is possible for an actor to achieve.

"Rain or Shine" was written by James Gleason, author of "Is Zat So" "The Shannons of Broadway" and other popular stage and screen hits. The dialogue of this film of circus life follows most closely the stage version.

Frank Capra, the directorial genius who made "Flight," "Submarine" and "Ladies of Leisure," handled the production.

The cast is of stellar proportions, including such personalities as Louise Fazenda, Jean Peers, William Collier, Jr., Alan Roscoe, Adolph Milar and Clarence Muse.

that. There was excitement about him. Where he was, things happened, things began."

AT THE GRAND

"Wings of Adventure," the newest Tiffany talking production, is the attraction today at the Grand Theatre. Rex Lease, Armida and Clyde Cook play the leading roles with other characters interpreted by Nick de Ruiz, Fred Malatesta and Eddie Boland. The story is by Harry Frazer and Richard Thorpe directed with RCA Photophone recording.

Dave Kent is an adventure-loving aviator who gets his fill of dangers and daring when his motor goes dead over bandit territory and he is forced to land. The bandits have political ambitions and Kent and his mechanic, Skeet's Smith and his airplane, are desirable additions to their "army". Their first duty is to hold up a cantina in the name of taking a collection for La Panthera, the bandit who intends to be president.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Love dominates the story of "Young Man of Manhattan," the red-blooded, mile-a-minute, modern-day romance which opens its two days run at the Cliftona theatre Friday. It's the story of two people who want to live their own lives after marriage and have love too. Katherine Brush, popular magazine writer, created "Young Man of Manhattan" as a Saturday Evening Post serial. Then the story was published in novel form and ran into several editions.

Claudette Colbert, the charming heroine of "The Lady Lies," plays the part of Ann Vaughn, who "only" rode in strange men's laps on third Mondays in May. Her eyes are dark, her hair is brown. She has a straight, short little nose, a model chin, pointed yet soft, and dark lashes.

Norman Foster, Broadway stage star, has the title role. He is the Toby McLean created by Miss Brush, and whom she describes as follows: "He was born at high noon on a flash-bang Fourth of July at a summer resort; and everything in his life had been like

MASONS MEETING IS ENDED TODAY

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 3.—The one hundred and fourteenth annual convention of the grand chapter of Ohio Royal Arch Masons, which was attended by more than 600 officers and delegates, was closed today with the annual election and business session.

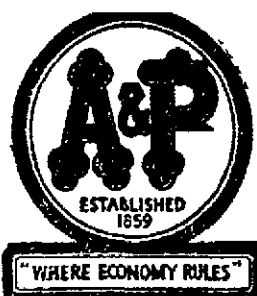

Yesterday's meeting was addressed by Mayor James Thomas of Columbus, D. C. Rybolt, of Akron, and David B. Sharp, of Columbus. The meeting was presided by William H. Tateman, Cincinnati, grand high priest.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 3.—Indiana has several veterans around which to build the backfield for this football season. Of worthy note is George Ross, of Wabash, who performed in such great style last season in several games. He will work at halfback this year.

Ed Hughes, of Gary, is expected to be in charge of the kicking department along with his work at fullback. Charles Brubaker, of Fort Wayne, will assume his old post at quarterback. Vic Dauer, of Gary, is playing his second year on the squad at a halfback post. Luke Ashby, of Evansville, is expected to see some duty his final year at quarterback.

Silver Bandages

Bandages, made of silver, instead of cotton, apparently have the power of healing surgical wounds, according to Dr. P. Maritsch, of Vienna university, Austria. The silver, applied in the form of a thin leaf, he reports seems to have a marked antiseptic value.

Cards Dejected After Trouncing

By JAMES L. MILGALEN
ABOARD, WORLD SERIES SPECIAL ENROUTE TO ST. LOUIS, Oct. 3.—Two ball clubs very much in the public eye, the Philadelphia Athletics and the St. Louis Cardinals, were speeding today toward St. Louis where they will clash tomorrow in the third game of the 1930 world series. The A's, with two victories chucked away in their bat bags, were care-free and jubilant while the Red Birds were a thoughtful and somewhat subdued aggregation.

The belief is growing that the A's are to be formidable for the Cards. The consensus is that this series will end in St. Louis where three games are scheduled. Many competent baseball judges would not be surprised to see the A's take the Cardinals four straight.

Betting odds have jumped to the point where the A's backers are offering 3 to 1 that they will win the series, and there are no takers. The convincing 5 to 2 and 6 to 1 defeats the Athletics have dealt St. Louis in the first and second contests have disheartened the followers of the Cardinals.

The National League entry has made an amazingly poor show so far in the series. The Cards claimed "The breaks" beat them the opening combat but they had no alibi for yesterday's defeat. They didn't hit, they didn't field and their starting pitcher, Flint Rhem, didn't pitch. They were simply outclassed.

Something will have to be done about the sorry showing the National League is making in the annual classics. The National Leaguers have lost fourteen of the last fifteen world series games that have been played. Last year the Chicago Cubs dropped four out of five, the year before the Cardinals lost four straight to the New York Yankees and in 1927 the Yankees took four in a row from the Pittsburgh Pirates.

It's beginning to look as if the American League is the real big

MONROE TWP. SCHOOL NOTES

School has been in progress for three weeks. Four new teachers are on the staff this year. They are: Robert Barton, superintendent, John Barricklow, principal; Mrs. Robert Barton, high school faculty, and Miss Margaret Florey, first grade teacher.

At the first baseball game of the season our boys were badly defeated by the boys of Darbytown, but at the close of the game last Friday afternoon the score was only ten to nine in Derby's favor. Our girls' recreation ball team lost to the Derby girls.

There are 60 pupils enrolled in the high school this year.

The school has been holding a contest to sell the Curtis Publishing Company's products. The race is between the Red team, led by Geraldine Dudson, and the Blue team, directed by Clyde Winfough. Profits are to go to the school fund.

The school board has purchased the Tillie property, adjoining the school yard, and is going to prepare it for playground space. This will be greatly appreciated by the pupils.

Athletic supplies in form of baseballs, bats, masks, tennis and volley balls have been purchased with money from the school funds.

The senior class chose their officers last week. They are Ray Dudson, president, Grace Crawford, vice-president, Earl Neff, treasurer, and John Arbogast, secretary.

Two new subjects have been introduced into the school, music and physical education.

The seniors have ordered their class rings, invitations, and name.

MONROE TWP.

They didn't hit, they didn't field and their starting pitcher, Flint Rhem, didn't pitch. They were simply outclassed.

Something will have to be done about the sorry showing the National League is making in the annual classics. The National League has lost fourteen of the last fifteen world series games that have been played. Last year the Chicago Cubs dropped four out of five, the year before the Cardinals lost four straight to the New York Yankees and in 1927 the Yankees took four in a row from the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Its beginning to look as if the American League is the real big circuit. In the twenty six series played from 1903 to 1929 inclusive the American League has won sixteen and the National ten.

Unless the Cardinals apply the breaks mightily quickly they are sunk and the American League will win its seventeenth series. The Cardinals are not playing the kind of ball that enabled them to kill off the Cubs, Giants and Robins in the pennant race. Douthitt and Bottomley haven't made a hit in the series. The St. Louis team has made only three runs in two days on fifteen hits, whereas the A's have made eleven runs on only twelve hits.

Manager Connie Mack of the A's is now in a position to win the series with only two pitchers—Grove and Earnshaw, both thrive on plenty of work. Grove could go back at the Cards tomorrow and Earnshaw on Sunday, and if they both won again the series would be over.

KINGSTON

The Social Circle met at the Reformed church on Thursday afternoon, Sept. 18, with Mesdames Geo. Evans and James Fulton. Mrs. Olive Maxwell, Mrs. Caroline Crispin and daughter Faith assisted in the serving. The following program was presented in the church: Opened with Doxology and prayer followed by responsive Scripture reading; singing, "Faith of Our Fathers." After the secretary's report the roll was called with 18 members responding. During the social hour the following program was rendered: Musical reading, Miss Ada Coey; Reading, Mrs. Allie Oliver; Vocal solo, Miss Ardeth Fulton; Reading, Mrs. Jennie Kreisel; Piano solo, Mrs. Grace Kellar; Reading, Mrs. Anna Stauffer. The meeting adjourned by singing two verses of "Blest Be the Tie" and repeating Mizpah. The next meeting will be at the church, also, on Wednesday, Oct. 15, a day before the regular date. After the program the hostesses invited all to the social room, where tables were spread for the members and visitors. The tables were beautiful with decorations of Fall colors of crepe paper and nut favors to match and each person was requested to find their own place cards. Refreshments of ice cream, cake, coffee and mints were served. Visitors present were, Grace Kellar, Ruth Kellar, Helen Grimes, Jennie Kreisel, and daughter Joyce, Lucille Pontious, Adah Coey, Anna Stauffer.

MONROE TWP. SCHOOL NOTES

School has been in progress for three weeks. Four new teachers are on the staff this year. They are: Robert Barton, superintendent; John Barricklow, principal; Mrs. Robert Barton, high school faculty, and Miss Margaret Florey, first grade teacher.

At the first baseball game of the season our boys were badly defeated by the boys of Darbytown, but at the close of the game last Friday afternoon the score was only ten to nine in Derby's favor. Our girls' recreation ball team lost to the Derby girls.

There are 60 pupils enrolled in the high school this year.

The school has been holding a contest to sell the Curtis Publishing Company's products. The race is between the Red team, led by Geraldine Dudson, and the Blue team, directed by Clyde Winfough. Profits are to go to the school fund.

The school board has purchased the Tillie property, adjoining the school yard, and is going to prepare it for playground space. This will be greatly appreciated by the pupils.

Athletic supplies in form of baseballs, bats, masks, tennis and volley balls have been purchased with money from the school funds.

The senior class chose their officers last week. They are: Ray Dudson, president; Grace Crawford, vice-president; Earl Neff, treasurer, and John Arbogast, secretary.

Two new subjects have been introduced into the school, music and physical education.

The seniors have ordered their class rings, invitations, and name

GAS IS USED FOR SUICIDE

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Apparently finding it too painful to die by slashing his wrists, Frank A. Porlich, 40, a dealer in chemicals, blew the entire rear out of his bungalow today, killing himself instantly.

After an investigation of the shattered bungalow police announced that he had filled the house with gas and ignited it by lighting a match. The resulting blast blew out the whole rear wall of the house and part of the roof. The entire neighborhood was rocked by the blast.

Porlich's throat and wrists were bandaged and under the wrappings police found slashes, indicating he had cut himself, found the pain too great and decided on another method of self-destruction.

He had been estranged from his wife.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE

In pursuance of an order of sale of the Probate Court of Pickaway County, Ohio issued in the proceeding of the late Milton E. Jones deceased, I will offer for sale at Public Auction on Saturday, the first day of November at two o'clock P. M. at the front door of the Court House in Circleville, Ohio, the following described real estate situated in the County of Pickaway in the City of Circleville, State of Ohio, to-wit:

Being Lots Nos. 1239 and 1240 according to the revised number of the Lots of said City. On said Lots is situated a frame dwelling which was the residence of said deceased, and being House number 327 East Union Street, said city and being on the South side of Union Street between Washington and Clinton Streets. As the east veranda of said dwelling house extends over upon a part of Lot No. 1240, said two Lots will be offered for sale together.

Said two Lots appraised together at $3500.00.

Also the following premises situated in said city, county and state and bounded and described as follows: Beginning at an iron stake in the middle of the Circleville and Washington Turnpike S. 65 1/2° W. 25 feet from the north west corner of the "Scioto Machine Works" Lot, thence S. 22° W. 3 poles and 3 lengths to a post corner to post and rail fence; thence S. 23° W. 4 poles to a stone wall; thence S. 65 1/2° E. 12 1/2 poles to the beginning. Containing 55 poles of land and being a part of Section 19 Township 11 Range 2 W. S. On said premises is a large frame building used as a garage and blacksmith shop and another large building used for storage purposes. Said premises being situated on the south side of the Public Highway running from the west end of West Main Street to the Scioto River Bridge, in said City. Buildings not numbered.

Appraised at $1200.00.

Terms of sale, Cash.

Melissa L. Jones Administratrix of the estate of Milton E. Jones, deceased.

Meeker Terwilliger, Atty. 234-51.

STATEMENT OF THE OWNER, SUPERVISOR, AND MANAGER, REQUIRED BY THE ACT OF CONGRESS OF AUGUST 24, 1912.

Of The Herald published daily at Circleville for October 1930.

Before me, a Notary Public in and for the State of Ohio,

Auction and Legals 90-91

For the State and County aforesaid, personally appeared J. Herrmann who, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the Manager of the Circleville Publishing Co. and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of ownership, management, the circulation, etc. of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, embodied in section 411, Postal Laws and Regulations, which on the reverse of this form, to-wit:

1. That the names and addresses of the publishers, editor, managing editor and business managers are: Publisher, The Circleville Publishing Co., Circleville, O.

Editor, Glen Gebb, Circleville, O.

Business Manager, K. J. Herrmann, Circleville, O.

2. That the owner is: (if owned by a corporation, its name and address must be stated and also immediately thereunder the names and addresses of the stockholders owning or holding one per cent or more of total amount of stock. If not owned by a corporation, its name and address as well as those of each individual member, must be given.)

A. A. Hoopingarner, Dover, Ohio. K. J. Herrmann, Circleville, Ohio. W. R. Reese, Dover, Ohio.

S. J. Reeves, Dover, Ohio. E. P. Wible, Dover, Ohio.

3. That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities are: NONE.

4. That the two paragraphs next above, giving the names of the owners, stockholders, and security holders, if any, contain not only the list of stockholders and security holders as they appear upon the books of the company but also, in cases where the stockholder or security holder appears upon the books of the company as trustee or in any other fiduciary relation, the name of the person or persons for whom such trustee is acting, is given; also that the said two paragraphs contain statements embracing affiant's full knowledge and belief as to the circumstances and conditions under which stockholders and security holders who do not appear upon the books of the company as trustees, hold stock and securities in a capacity other than that of a bona fide owner; and this affiant has no reason to believe that any other person, association, or corporation has any interest direct or indirect in the said stock, bonds, or other securities than as so stated by the paragraphs above.

5. That the average number of copies of each issue of this publication sent or distributed, through the mails or otherwise, to paid subscribers during the six months preceding the date above is 2435.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 1st day of October, 1930.

GAS IS USED FOR SUICIDE

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Apparently finding it too painful to die by slashing his wrists, Frank A. Porlich, 40, a dealer in chemicals, blew the entire rear out of his bungalow today, killing himself instantly.

After an investigation of the shattered bungalow police announced that he had filled the house with gas and ignited it by lighting a match. The resulting blast blew out the whole rear wall of the house and part of the roof. The entire neighborhood was rocked by the blast.

Porlich's throat and wrists were bandaged and under the wrappings police found slashes, indicating he had cut himself, found the pain too great and decided on another method of self-destruction. He had been estranged from his wife.

WOMAN DIES IN APARTMENT FIRE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Miss Jesse Cammick, 66 years old and blind was burned to death early today in a four-alarm fire that swept through the top floors of two apartment houses. For a time the flames threatened several other apartment houses in the neighborhood.

Another woman, Mrs. E. J. Fisher broke her hip when she jumped to safety and a fireman was overcome in effecting rescues. All families occupying the apartments were driven to the street in their night clothes, or scant attire. A chilly wind was blowing, and neighbors cared for most of them.

Spectators gasped as a young mother Mrs. Alfred Castle, tossed her one year old baby to G. W. Mask, who caught the child 15 feet below her window. Mrs. Castle jumped and was uninjured.

LANMAN HURT

Dwight Lanman, an employee of the H. M. Crites & Co. mill on S. Court-st., was injured Wednesday when the crank flew off some machinery he was repairing and struck him in the eye. Dr. D. V. Courtwright attended to his injuries which were not serious.

Epidemic of Paralysis In State Prompts Move of Health Commissioner.

All schools in Highland-co have been ordered closed by the county board of health according to word received here. The infantile paralysis epidemic that is sweeping over Ohio prompted the move of Dr. Hodson, health commissioner.

While there is only one case of the disease in the Greenfield school district, there are several reports in the county.

The schools have been ordered closed until Oct. 13.

CHAIR PENALTY FOR MURDERERS

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Lafon Fisher and Leonard Shadlow, negroes paid with their lives in the electric chair early today, for the murder two years ago of a 70 year old bank guard.

Shadlow was the first to enter the execution room at 12:05 a. m. Jail attendants partly supported him while Father John Higgins, jail chaplain, walked behind carrying a crucifix. The current was turned on and five minutes later he was pronounced dead.

For Fisher the death march was different. He was paralyzed from the hips downward and had to be carried to the chair.

DEATH APPEAL PROVES FAILURE

PORTSMOUTH, O., Oct. 3.—A sentence decreeing that Charles Cramer, of Cincinnati, must die in the electric chair for the murder of Robert Clemens, 70-year-old farmer of Georgetown, O., had been upheld today by the district court of appeals which heard the plea yesterday.

John Zeller, also of Cincinnati, has also been given the death penalty for the slaying of the aged farmer. Fred Davis and Charles Johnston are awaiting trial on the same charge.

DINNER BRIDGE TUESDAY

Miss Bertha Bowers and Mrs. George McCrea will entertain at a dinner bridge Tuesday evening in honor of their guest Mrs. Hendricks of Oak Park, Ill.

MRS. NICKERSON AND MRS. KING ENTERTAIN

Mrs. Glenn Nickerson and Mrs. Orion King were hostesses Thursday evening at a dinner bridge given at the former's home complimenting Miss Marietta Upton of New York City, a guest of Mrs. King, and Miss Sarah Millar of Ashville, whose marriage to Mr. James D. MacMahon of Boston, Mass., will be an event of Oct. 25. Large baskets of marigolds decorated the home. Forty guests were seated at the card tables, where a nosegay of marigolds, scabiosa, roses, and ageratum attached to a green candle made a very attractive center piece for each table. The color scheme was yellow and green.

Trophies were awarded Miss Grace Clarke and Mrs. Ray Bales. Guest prizes were presented Miss Millar and Miss Upton.

The out-of-town guests were Mrs. Barton Deming of Cleveland.

COMPLIMENTED WITH A SHOWER

Miss Ruth Holman, fiancée of Frank Casey, was complimented with a miscellaneous shower Thursday evening at the home of Miss Elizabeth Dunlap W. Franklin-st., when Miss Dunlap and Miss Mary Radcliff were hostesses to three tables of bridge.

Clusters of fall flowers were arranged artistically in the rooms, the color scheme being carried out in yellow and green. The tallies were miniature brides. The trophy for high score was awarded Miss Margaret Mattinson.

Mrs. Harold Bowers of Williamsport will entertain for Miss Holman Saturday evening.

BUSINESS WOMEN HAVE CARD PARTY

Eight tables of bridge were assembled in the Chamber of Commerce rooms Thursday evening at the card party sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club. When scores were tallied prizes were won by Miss Flossie Gardner, Mrs. Robert Denman and Miss Minnie Gardner.

Refreshments were served by the finance committee composed of Mrs. H. G. Stevenson, chairman, Mrs. Mary G. Morris, Misses Ann Shea, Willetta Burns, and Lena Housholder.

ENTERTAINED TO DINNER

Walter J. Dearth of E. Main-st. entertained at a dinner at Hanley's Tea Room at 6:30 p. m. Thursday. His guests were Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Leshner and Mrs. Margaret Rose of Adelphi. The party was in honor of the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Leshner.

WOMAN DIES IN APARTMENT FIRE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Miss Jessie Cammick, 66 years old and blind, was burned to death early today in a four-alarm fire that swept through the top floors of two apartment houses. For a time the flames threatened several other apartment houses in the neighborhood.

Another woman, Mrs. E. J. Fisher, broke her hip when she jumped to safety and a fireman was overcome in effecting rescues. All families occupying the apartments were driven to the street in their night clothes, or scant attire. A chilly wind was blowing, and neighbors cared for most of them.

Spectators gasped as a young mother, Mrs. Alfred Castle, tossed her one year old baby to G. W. Mask, who caught the child 15 feet below her window. Mrs. Castle jumped and was uninjured.

LANMAN HURT

Dwight Lanman, an employee of the H. M. Crites & Co. mill on S. Court-st. was injured Wednesday when the crank flew off some machinery he was repairing and struck him in the eye. Dr. D. V. Courtright attended to his injuries which were not serious.

HIGHLAND COUNTY SCHOOLS CLOSED

Epidemic of Paralysis In State Prompts Move of Health Commissioner.

All schools in Highland-co have been ordered closed by the county board of health according to word received here. The infantile paralysis epidemic that is sweeping over Ohio prompted the move of Dr. Hodson, health commissioner.

While there is only one case of the disease in the Greenfield school district, there are several reported in the county.

The schools have been ordered closed until Oct. 13.

CHAIR PENALTY FOR MURDERERS

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Lafon Fisher and Leonard Shadow, negroes paid with their lives in the electric chair early today, for the murder two years ago of a 70 year old bank guard.

Shadow was the first to enter the execution room at 12:05 a. m. Jail attendants partly supported him while Father John Higgins, jail chaplain, walked behind carrying a crucifix. The current was turned on and five minutes later he was pronounced dead.

For Fisher the death march was different. He was paralyzed from the hips downward and had to be carried to the chair.

DEATH APPEAL PROVES FAILURE

PORTSMOUTH, O., Oct. 3.—A sentence decreeing that Charles Cramer, of Cincinnati, must die in the electric chair for the murder of Robert Clemens, 70-year-old farmer of Georgetown, O., had been upheld today by the district court of appeals which heard the plea yesterday.

John Zeller, also of Cincinnati, has also been given the death penalty for the slaying of the aged farmer. Fred Davis and Charles Johnston are awaiting trial on the same charge.
